ACTION PLAN TO COMBAT HATE CRIMES

MINISTRY OF INTERIOR – STATE SECRETARIAT FOR SECURITY
PRESENTATION BY THE MINISTER OF INTERIOR

Those of us who believe in the principles of democracy actively defend the right of people to show themselves as they are in a plural and diverse society, regardless of their national or ethnic origin, sex or gender, ideology, sexual identity, religion or intellectual or physical capabilities.

Unfortunately, there are still criminal conducts which, driven by hatred and intolerance, restrict dignity and jeopardize this freedom and the development of people under equal conditions and opportunities. The so-called hate crimes attack the foundations of the rule of law and the foundational values of the European Union and, therefore, it is crucial to reinforce the fight against this type of crimes.

Combating discrimination and inequality is a priority for the Ministry of Interior. That is the reason why it is stepping up its efforts to adopt public policies related to hate crimes under the criteria of supranational organizations such as the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights of the OSCE or the Fundamental Rights Agency of the EU.

A proof of our determination is the creation of the National Office to Combat Hate Crimes, under the State Secretariat for Security. Since this Office was established, officers of the Spanish Security Forces work to better identify and record hate crimes, as well as to raise awareness on the treatment and support to the victims.

Hate crimes are specifically defined under the Spanish criminal law, classifying criminal conducts and groups eligible for protection. However, apart from this legal response, in order to move forward in this fight, it is necessary to make these crimes visible. In 2017 the Spanish Security Forces recorded 1,419 incidents classified as “hate crimes”, 11.6% more than 2016. These figures reflect the scourge these crimes represent but, at the same time, the increase in the number of complaints also shows higher trust in the institutions by the citizens when reporting these facts.

In the journey towards the eradication of hate incidents and crimes, it is indispensable to establish constant dialogue and collaboration with associations, organizations and groups with different backgrounds and which could be victimized, such as the LGTBI, religious denominations, associations of people with functional diversity or migrants’ organizations, among others. Thus, we are grateful to these organizations for their commitment to share their needs and the problems they face and also to contribute in the search for solutions.

As a result of this joint effort and in order to reconfirm our intention to continue moving forward, the Ministry of Interior has drafted this “Action Plan against Hate Crimes and Incidents”, recently approved by the Executive Committee of Operational Coordination in our ministerial department.

This plan represents a new approach and focuses on the work and response of the Spanish Security Forces in cases of hate crimes and incidents. It encompasses four fundamental pillars: training of the Spanish Security Forces, prevention, assistance to victims and response to this type of crimes. Moreover, specific procedures and digital tools are developed to counter these crimes and hate speech, also in social media.

In addition, this Action Plan sets the foundations to continue a robust collaboration with civil society groups to jointly defend the democratic values that unite us and represents a renewed guide to promote the fight against hate conducts that generate a limitation of fundamental rights and freedoms.

Our goal is to go along this journey taking firm steps. Its final destination is to guarantee the right to dignity of all citizens equally.

Fernando Grande-Marlaska Gómez.
Minister of Interior.
1. INTRODUCTION

Any criminal offence is reprehensible but those driven by hatred due to “real or perceived race, national or ethnic origin, language, colour, religion, sex, age, intellectual or physical disability, sexual orientation or other similar factor” (OSCE, 2003) are particularly censurable. This is so because hate crimes and incidents do not only cause serious consequences on the victims and their family members, but also because they fracture society.

International institutions defending human rights, such as United Nations, with its Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination (CERD), especially since the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action (2001 and 2009), the European Union with the Fundamental Rights Agency (FRA), the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) with its Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights (ODIHR) and finally, the Council of Europe with its European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI), whose recommendations on general policy and reports about the different Member States are the basis for the case law of the European Court of Human Rights in that matter, have expressed for years their concern for an effective investigation of the crimes committed due to hate and discrimination, as well as for the assistance of the victims of these crimes.

The evolution of our societies –and the Spanish society in particular- requires a more efficient response to tackle the challenges of existing attitudes and statements against human rights and fundamental freedoms and very specially those conducts which objectively and subjectively represent hatred and discrimination towards a victim because of their connection, relation, affiliation, support or belonging, real or alleged, to a group based on “race”, national or ethnic origin, language, colour, religion, age, physical or mental disability, sexual orientation or other factors.

Article 1 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights points out that “All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. They are endowed with reason and conscience and should act towards one another in a spirit of brotherhood.” Under this premise, the Spanish Constitution enshrines equality as a high value of the legal system in its Article 1 and as a fundamental right in its Article 14. Besides, its Article 9 establishes that “the public powers are in charge of promoting the conditions so that freedom and equality of the individual and the groups where they integrate are real and effective, remove the obstacles that hinder its fulfilment and facilitate the participation of all the citizens in the political, economic, cultural and social life”.

The Spanish Security Forces, fulfilling their constitutional mandate of protecting the free exercise of rights and freedoms, have those fundamental values as a constant guidance, especially if we take into consideration that the actions that run against equality, such as hate crimes and incidents, and discrimination, jeopardize peaceful coexistence.

The framework of “hate crimes”, as it is well known, does not fall into specific legal categories in our criminal law but it refers to a set of actions that—under a common element, hatred, which at the same time leads to discrimination and aversion—sometimes refers to new typical actions and sometimes they determine the classification of actions already included in the Criminal Code or in administrative regulations.

Due to all these reasons, a specific Police Action Plan against Hate Incidents and Crimes needs to be implemented, considering the “Action Protocol of the Spanish Security Forces for hate crimes and actions that infringe legal rules on discrimination” as a starting point, since it is a set of homogenous and unified rules or guidelines for Police officers to identify, correctly gather and classify racist, xenophobic or discriminatory incidents and crimes and to determine specific elements to be taken into account in police action.

The implementation of the principle of equal treatment and elimination of all forms of discrimination is an essential strategic element to improve democratic quality, economic growth and sustainable development of the society as a whole.

Therefore, attaining a cohesive and integrated society implies guaranteeing active participation of citizens, recognizing and respecting differences but promoting critical dialogue, the relation and interaction of people from different cultures in order to ensure social cohesion based on the common constitutional principles and the respect and positive assessment of diversity.

For all the reasons mentioned above, this Police Action Plan against Hate Incidents and Crimes emerges from the constitutional concept of an active State (Article 9.2) which tries to remove the obstacles that hinder the development of people under equal conditions and with equal opportunities by means of their public policies. This means becoming aware of the real possibilities that several sectors of the population have to access or not social, cultural and economic goods, public and private services, the creation of social and cultural relations with the community and the participation in political processes.

The 5\textsuperscript{th} report on “Evolution of incidents regarding hate crimes recorded in 2017 in Spain” will be published this year. The figure of hate crimes recorded by the Spanish Security Forces in 2017 amounts to 1,419 crimes and administrative offences, which means an increase of 11.6% compared to 2016.

2. BACKGROUND

The concept of “hate crime” is relatively modern and almost all efforts made by international organizations and countries to counter this crime started in this 21st century. The Ministry of Interior has been acting in this field since 2012 developing a series of initiatives that lay the foundations to the current fight against this scourge in Spain.
Among them, we could highlight the following:

a) Participation in the FIRIR Program

Since 2012, in the framework of the European Project “Progress”, the FIRIR Program (Training for the Identification and Recording of Racist Incidents, for its Spanish acronym) was developed between the State Secretariat for Security and the Spanish Observatory against Racism and Xenophobia (OBERAXE, for its Spanish acronym). This program was used to implement the training on “hate crimes” for the officers of the Spanish Security Forces.

b) Handbook to Support Spanish Security Forces to identify and Record Racist and Xenophobic Incidents and modifications in the Crime Statistics System

In 2013 the Handbook to Support State Security Forces to Identify and Record Racist and Xenophobic Incidents was issued under the coordination of the General Secretariat of Immigration and Emigration and the State Secretariat for Security, under the Ministry of Interior. The goal of this Handbook was to be used as a support for the Spanish Security Forces in identifying and recording racist or xenophobic incidents. In order to register these “hate crimes”, the Crime Statistics System had to be modified and, consequently, the rules for recording data about crimes to be followed by the officers also had to be changed.

c) First report on incidents related to “hate crimes” in Spain

In 2014, a Report on incidents related to “hate crimes” in Spain was published for the first time, with data about 2013, following the recommendations of the JHA Council (December 2013), providing the number of incidents related to discriminatory actions reported by the citizens and recorded by Police authorities. After this report, two more were published year after year and it can be attested that the recording of data as well as the quality of data are increasing considerably, mainly due to the training, sensitization and awareness raising of the Police officers and the gathering of specific and defined data about the underlying reasons for those incidents that led to the police report. Not surprisingly, the European Agency of Fundamental Rights has expressed that Spain is in the last few years one of the five countries with better data recording practices for these crimes.

This report is published yearly, with the data recorded from the previous year, on the website of the Ministry of Interior, available to any interested person.

d) Approval of the “Action Protocol for Spanish Security Forces for “hate crimes” and actions that infringe the legal rules on Discrimination”

In 2014, the Instruction 16/2014 of the State Secretariat for Security was adopted. In this Instruction, the “Action Protocol for Spanish Security Forces for “hate crimes” and actions that infringe the legal rules on Discrimination” was approved. One year later, this Instruction was modified year by the Instruction 16/2015, due to several legal reforms.

This Protocol has been explicitly mentioned in the set of best practices of the European Union regarding how to counter hate crimes. This set was published by the Fundamental Rights Agency (FRA) of the European Union and it covers measures and actions developed by EU Member States to fight against “hate crimes”.

Since this protocol introduces a comprehensive revision of police action in all its stages when this type of crime is committed, adapting the content of the first police report in order to guarantee that all signs to determine the reason and nature of the facts are properly explained for subsequent judicial proceedings. This means that since the beginning, they establish what can be assessed as a hate crime. A fundamental goal is sensitive and professional treatment to the victims, guaranteeing their right to protection, information, support, assistance and active participation without any kind of discrimination.

e) Specific section about “hate crimes” on the website of the Ministry of Interior

Since 2014, a specific section about “hate crimes” has been developed on the website of the Ministry of Interior, mainly with the purpose of supporting the victims of these crimes, as well as their families and acquaintances. This website includes basic information about what is hate crime, why it has to be reported and tips to follow in case of an incident, as well as other interesting links. The website also includes a set of documents encompassing simple and brief information for victims of “hate crimes” and the society as a whole, contributing to raising awareness and to collective sensitization about how to identify and, where appropriate, to report these crimes to the State Se-
Hate crimes

In view of the important task of providing the proper Police support and protection to the victims or witnesses of hate crimes due to racism, antisemitism or other ideological reasons, religion or beliefs, sexual orientation, illness or disability or other discriminatory facts, it is of utmost importance to offer the necessary information to those involved to react in case of such incidents. Therefore, it is essential to clarify the following questions:

- What are hate crimes according to Spanish legislation?
- How, to what institutions and why should a victim of a hate crime or a person knowing about a hate crime report?
- What measures could a victim or a witness of a hate crime adopt?

f) Implementation of the “Survey on experiences with incidents related to hate crimes”

With the purpose of countering this type of crime and improving the treatment to victims, since the 15th of March until the 31st of December 2017, the “Survey on experiences with incidents related to hate crimes” was implemented. It could be filled in by any person who felt as victim of a hate crime with the possibility of accessing the “easy reading mode” for people with intellectual functional diversity. The fundamental aim of the survey was to record situations and cases that are not reported either because of lack of trust or because the person does not want to reveal a situation that affects them and their environment directly. This shall not prevent the eradication of the problem and find a solution to the situation of the person involved and, in such a way, improve Police action. This survey is planned to be implanted twice a year.

g) Creation of the National Office to combat Hate Crimes

Another important step was the creation of the National Office to combat Hate Crimes, whose members are the Spanish Security Forces. It was created under the Instruction 1/2018 of the State Secretariat for Security, as a unit under the Director of the Coordination and Studies Cabinet, advising the State Secretariat for Security in matters related to “hate crimes” and providing strategic and technical information to adopt public policies in this regard.

To meet the requirements set by the Instruction, the National Office to combat Hate Crimes keeps direct contact at central level with the representatives of each Police Corps to implement and execute the right communication mechanisms. It also has contacts for communication and collaboration with non-governmental organizations representing the victims of “hate crimes” and vulnerable groups, and other national and international public and private institutions involved, with the aim of creating an information network to improve knowledge about the situation of “hate crimes”.

3. FRAMEWORK OF THE ACTION PLAN

The Government considers it is necessary to use a new approach and to promote the fight against hate incidents and crimes, establishing strategic guidelines for the set of actions that the Spanish Security Forces shall implement with a specific Action Plan.

The goal of this Action Plan is preventing hate incidents and crimes and mitigating or reducing the harm caused to the victims, improving the response by the State Security Forces and increasing the trust of vulnerable groups have in them.

Therefore, this Action Plan is orchestrated at the State Secretariat for Security. The National Office to combat Hate Crimes, under the Coordination and Studies Cabinet, is in charge of promoting, coordinating and supervising it.

It mainly targets the Spanish Security Forces and the measures foreseen are compulsory for the bodies of the State Secretariat for Security related to this matter.

Nevertheless, in the framework of the agreements reached at regional and local level, the participation of the different Police Corps will be fostered.

Likewise, the measures of this Plan pay special attention to the participation of the organizations representing vulnerable groups, since without them, the Plan losses its practical value to a great extent.

The Action plan is divided in four Action Lines, three Objectives, 47 proposed Measures and also the drafting of three new documents and the review of one more, as well as the bimonthly edition of a newsletter about this topic.

Its implementation will be immediate, once approved by the Instruction of the State Secretariat for Security, and the validity period is until the end of 2020.

The follow-up and supervision of the Plan is crucial in order to evaluate its scope and effectiveness. With the information gathered, the National Office to combat Hate Crimes will publish an annual report during the first quarter of the year to present the results of the Plan to the Minister of the Interior and to redraft, if necessary, a new Action Plan.
4. ACTION LINES, OBJECTIVES AND MEASURES IN THE ACTION PLAN

This Action Plan has four main pillars or action lines that will lead us to the desired goal: a firm and rigorous response in case of hate incidents or crimes, increasing prevention and investigation capabilities and improving assistance to victims, thanks to better trained and prepared Security Forces to tackle hate conducts.

The Action lines, determined by the objectives to be achieved through a series of measures, are the following:

- Training of the Spanish Security Forces
- Prevention of hate incidents and crimes
- Assistance to victims
- Efficient and rigorous response to this type of incidents and crimes

The National Office to Combat Hate Crimes, under the Coordination and Studies Cabinet (State Secretariat for Security) is responsible for promoting, coordinating and monitoring the Plan.

The General Managers of National Police and Civil Guard will appoint a National Coordinator of the Plan (and one more for each autonomous region and Ceuta and Melilla) with sufficient capacity to promote the measures included in the Plan. The national Coordinators, who will participate in the Monitoring Committee explained below, will be in charge of the follow up of the indicators of the Plan and of preparing and sending the corresponding reports.

There will be a Monitoring Committee for this Action Plan, chaired by the Manager of the Coordination and Studies Cabinet, and comprised of staff working in the National Office to Combat Hate Crimes, the National Coordinators of the Plan for Civil Guard and National Police and representatives of those associations reflecting each field in “hate crimes”. The unit of the Prosecutor’s Office for protection of equality and against discrimination will be invited to this Monitoring Committee.

The Monitoring Committee will meet once every six months to assess the scope of compliance of the Plan according to the indicators set in point 6. After three months of the entry into force of the Plan, the Monitoring Committee will draft and send a report with the evaluation of its implementation.

The Monitoring Committee will issue its reports to the State Secretariat for Security for the follow up and evaluation of the Plan.
